

Teach the Teacher

This practical two day course will empower clinical teachers with the knowledge, confidence and skills to teach effectively in a wide range of settings.

This course is facilitated by Nessa Carey; a successful career scientist and educationalist who created the BSc in Surgical Sciences at Imperial College London as well as RSM Associate Dean Kaji Sritharan. A consultant vascular surgeon at the Royal Free Hospital NHS Trust, Kaji is passionate about teaching and education, she is currently developing over twenty undergraduate and post graduate courses.

Open to any healthcare professional looking to progress their leadership and management skills in the industry.

RSM member: £475

Non-member: £575

Tickets include tea, coffee and lunch. Following registration you will be contacted appropriately by email with; your booking confirmation, feedback survey and attendance certificate. For full details of the RSM privacy policy, visit the RSM website.

Multiple dates available:

1 – 2 February 2018

26 – 27 – April 2018

14 – 15 June 2018

